

Important Announcement from the Principal

On Tuesday, March 27, 2012, FBI Special Agent Nicholas Phirippidis will host a presentation on "FBI Internet Safety." Topics covered will be social networking, cyberbullying, online gaming, sexting, and cover a few real-life FBI case studies.

This information has been presented at the high school level and at other local elementary schools. Our faculty and staff, with the support of our school Advisory Council, have all agreed that this topic needs to be addressed at St. Ignatius Parish School. Each year, we are faced with growing concerns of how much access our students have to the internet, and the need to provide supervision and guidance for this powerful tool.

All parents of a 6th-8th grader are STRONGLY ENCOURAGED to attend this very important presentation. In order to promote discussion, we are asking that you bring your child with you as well. Students must be accompanied by at least one of their parents.

All other parents, pre-school-5th grade, are invited to attend. Due to the somewhat graphic nature of the presentation, children under 6th grade are not permitted.
